89 New Buildings for the Blackfoot Indians

Tenders Called for 44 Houses and 46 Bar.

G. H. Gooderham, Indian agent, has received instructions from Ottawa to call for tenders for the erection of 44 cottages and 46 bars on the Blackfoot Reserve. Plans and specifications may be seen on application to Mr. Gooderham here or at the several other places mentioned in the advertisement in next issue.

The erection of these buildings, with other improvements that must necessarily follow, means an expenditure of well on to $200,000 in this year in this vicinity, which at this particular time will be much appreciated.

The new houses for the Indians will be on about the same dimensions as those now occupied, but the bars will be larger.

ARROWWOOD NEWS

Ernest Mason is now at home, after spending several weeks at Blackfoot helping W. A. Mooman, who moved there.

J. W. D. Woodard has returned after spending the winter in Virginia. He is to be foreman on L. S. Smith's farm, at the eastern part of the Reserve.

Two brothers and a friend of Tom have arrived from England and will experience life on the ranch with Mr. Bar.

The Anti-Tubercular League, which was formed several weeks ago by a few members of the Bow Valley Church, will meet again today evening.

Ex-Governor of Kansas, Mr. Leedy, is expected to lecture at Arrowwood in June. He is to be at Nanatan on the same tour.

The delay in seeding with the long seed of rye and rain has proved a serious problem. Most horses were taken from the stable in the latter part of March to be fed more solid feed a few days before seeding. As it has turned out there is practically no seeding done yet and the horses have been fed in idleness during this period. This condition, with the cattle eating their share, has almost completely exhausted the supply of local feed, and most farmers who have hoped for feed enough to be able to sell their seedling feed the feed supply is none and no seeding done.

There is still quite a bit of tax to be threshed in this vicinity.

The Arrowwood Ladies' Aid met in the home of Mrs. E. C. Robinson this week.

Jack De Har, engineer for A. L. Peltan, has purchased a Chevrolet car from J. W. D. Woodard.

The trustees of The Arrowwood Consolidated School met Friday afternoon. They are anxiously trying to secure a teacher to fill the vacancy of the intermediate room.

A. L. Peltan is again in this vicinity after having been in Portland, Ore. during the winter season after the Commercial Transfer Co. of which he is president. Mr. Peltan recently bought the west half of 24-30-24-W. of 4th, which W. A. Mooman traded of, of which two years from H. A. Hingleman of Twin Falls, Idaho, paying $75 per acre for it. He will have four sections to drill and expects to use five drills, pulled by his 30-40 Aut-Taylor engine.

QUEENSTOWN U.F.W.A.

The U.F.W.A. have passed a resolution to hold an open meeting after seeing time on the Departmental Representation, with a mock election to demonstrate the working of the single transferable vote. This is also being taken up by the Board of Trade, the G.W.A., the Women's Institute and other organizations interested. This is a meeting for everybody, so let everyone feel their own "personal responsibility." Get behind this idea and make it a real successful educational meeting.

Ladies, this is of equal interest to you. Your vote is of the same value as your husband's or father's. Here is a chance for you to use that vote and see the result of this system of voting, take it over at home with your neighbor and at your meetings, win room and tell us what you think of it. The time and place of this meeting will be announced later.

At the last meeting of the U.F.W.A. the local decided to have a membership drive using the months of May and June. The following list were chosen—Mrs. Burke, leader, with Mrs. James Beckner, W. Hull, Mills, Glanbeck, Stump, R. Burk, Harvey, and sister Bushnell and Burk. Mr. St. Calk's wife—Nesbitt—Shore, N. Hull, Jackson, Williams, Juliette, Mallett, Kuhl, and Miss Hall and Thames. As an inducement to new members the fee has been reduced to $1.50.

The local decided to send five young people to the conference at the University of Alberta in Edmonton some time in June.

Sunday, May 29th, is to be Decoration Day, when a general clean-up of the cemetery is to be made. All who are friends buried in the cemetery are invited to come and help in this work. They are also requested to bring garbage pails, as these animals are working a lot of damage.

A tour next meeting, Saturday night, May 8, a discussion on the liquor question is to take place.

Union Church Notes

"Mothers Day" will be observed in Union Church next Sunday, May 9th. No other institution stands so close to the mother's heart than the Sunday School. Therefore, in honor of Mother's Day, the Ladies' Aid of the Union Church has arranged for a special Mothers' Day service, which will begin with bright lighted candles at 7:15.

Strangers who are in town will please accept these announcements as their cordial invitation.

At the mid-week meeting of the congregation last Wednesday evening it was decided to undertake the formation of a membership roll. Those who desire to unite and have certificates of membership from the old home church please turn them in to the minister. A statement of the roll was adopted for all new members. Reception and communion service will be held on Sunday afternoon, May 23rd.

The Circle sale to be held Saturday next is announced in another column.

Our friend John Glanbeck cancelled his series of articles last week on "Should Farmers Join the U.F.W.A.?" He has the vision to see the "guilt plain" what he means and is not personal. If any disagree with his views now is the time to say so. At least the U.F.A. cannot say they Call has not given a fair opportunity to discuss their aims and objects.

Big Show Coming Monday, May 10

Next Monday night, May 10th, a big musical show will be given in the Gleichen Opera House entitled "A night in Honolulu", by a company of 15 people, a troupe of native Hawaiian singers and musicians, also Princess La Keria, a real native girl dancer. This is a real good and meritorious company, touring Canada under the direction of the Trans-Canada Theatrical Circuit. They recently played an engagement at the Walker Theatre in Winnipeg to crowded houses, and are to play a three-day engagement at the Grand Theatre in Calgary in June. They carry all their own special scenery and electrical effects. One exciting scene shows a smoking burning volcano in full action.

The acting company is headed by Miss Lisa Carpenter, a pretty and talented young lady, last season a member of David Belasco's New York Co. Another beautiful girl is Miss June Rose, who will play the part of "Louise".

This is not a moving picture, but is a very interesting play.

MRS. JOHN E. GRAHAM PASSES AWAY

After a lingering illness, Mrs. John E. Graham passed away on Friday morning, April 30th, at her home on 8th Ave. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, May 2nd, from Union Church to Gleichen cemetery. Rev. R. N. Matheson conducted the service.

The late Mrs. Graham was born in Simco Co., sixty-six years ago; she was married in 1873, and lived on a farm near Kinross, in the Township of Grey, until 1908, when the family moved to Langdon, Alberta. Three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Graham retired from the farm, making up residence in Gleichen.

The deceased lady is survived by her husband and three children, Miss Alvin, a life long invalid; Mrs. Wm. Ferguson of Kinross, and Charles of Langdon. The sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved home and relatives.

It will be quite impossible in future for The Call to accept changes for sale after noon, of each week in any way. Remember you would not think it fair to raise the sending mail by five days because another advertiser was late in sending in copy. Would you?

The Arrowood district is making arrangements to purchase a moving picture machine from the Department of Extension of the University of Alberta to show moving pictures in the Consolidated School.

First Friday in each month the Gleichen Town Council meets.

Blind Creek Babbings

We did not think when we wrote of Ed. Hoppe's new home of it being Leap Year. We understand that since its appearance his mail has become very heavy. He careful, girls, or you will stampede him.

Gerald Bradshaw's smiling face reappeared on the mail route this week after a winter in the north, and looked good to the patrons, as Gerald is "good" mail carrier. He had to make his round Thursday with a pack-horse—the first time this ever had to be done on this route.

Mrs. Ernest Sawyer entertained Thursday evening, complimentary to Miss Pugh, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Batchelor, Mr. and Mrs. George Mac, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Rodgers being present.

The roads became too much for Harold Warty's car, so he is travelling by mail these days—ride in the pack pony. He finds plenty of plans to take, as he does good work. We have paid money and had poorer results when prices were not so high.

It has become generally known that another of our bachelor housemates has fallen a victim to Cupid's will. This time it was Jack Martin, the bride being Miss Lenneman, who is well and favorably known here. They are at home on Mr. Martin's fine farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood's shopping in Calgary this week.

Mrs. Roy Carson and children are on a visit to her parents, so Roy is at his old job hatching.

The friends of Mr. Stinson, Carleton's barber, will be sorry to learn of his mother's death in the States. He and his family have gone to attend the funeral and will be away a month.

Harry Benton is about the only bachelor left in these parts now. We have given up hopes for him. He got the care but the bird.

Mr. Douglas, S.S.B. land inspector, and Mr. Service, of Gleichen, were through here Monday on business. Archie Veal and Vernon Leadbetter were visitors here that week. Archie is going to help Ed. Hoppe on his farm the coming year.

Who knows what the harvest will be? One old-timer said his seed wheat and says it is too late now to sow wheat; he will sow oats, barley or flax. Another older grain grower says the wheat and says he believes now is the time to sow wheat and that Gleichen will have the biggest crop ever.

The Union Church Circle will hold their regular spring sale of aprons, home dresses home-making, etc., also afternoon lunch will be served in Lasher & Gillian's office, Post Office Block, on Saturday, May 11, at 3 p.m. Donations of home-making of any description by anyone interested in the church will be much appreciated.

The Gleichen Pound Keeper has been asked to enforce the Town Act after May 15. So keep old leeches and the pony out of town. Thereafter, the official notice.

"Won't you come in?" Irene was saying. Her voice was sweet and musical, but there was a note of sadness in it which set responsive chords atremble all through Edith's heart. Must she love this woman? Must she, in spite of herself, love this, of all women?

"I am Edith Duncan," she managed to say. "I—I think I have something to say that may interest you."

There was a quick leap in Irene's eyes; the leap of that intuitive feminine sense of danger which so seldom errs when dealing with its own sex, and is yet so unreliable a defence in dealing with the other dangers from the other. Mrs. Hardy was in the living-room. "Won't you come up to my work shop?" Irene said without change of voice, and they ascended the stairs together.

"I draw a little," Irene was saying, talking fast. "Oh, yes, I have quite commercialized my art, such as it is. I draw pictures of shoes, and skirt waists, and other women's wear, which really belong to the field of a feminine artist. But I haven't lost my soul altogether. I dab in color a little—yes, dab, that's the word. But it keeps one's soul alive. You will hardly recognize that," she said, indicating a case, "but here is the original." She ran up the blind of the window which looked from the room out to the westward, and over the brown shoulders of the foothills rose the Rockies, majestic, calm, imperturbable, their white summits flashing in the blaze of autumn sunshine. "No warfare there," Irene went on. "No plotting, no cruelty, no cowardice, no misunderstanding. And to think that they will stand there forever; forever, as we know time; when our city, our civilization, the very memory of our age shall have gone out. I never look at them without feeling how—how—how—"

She trembled, and her voice choked; she put out her arm to a chair. When she turned her face there were tears on it. "Tell me, — Edith," she said. "You know."

"I know some things," Edith managed to say. "I know, now, that I do not know all. I know, now, that I am friends—my father took a liking to him and he used often to be in our house—he made him think of our own boy that was killed and would have been just his age — and we got to know each other very well, and he told me about you, long ago. And last night I found him at his rooms, almost mad, and swearing to shoot Conward. And then he told me that—"

"Yes? yes? What did he tell you? I am not afraid."

Edith turned her eyes to where the white crests of the mountains cut like a crumpled keel through a sea of infinite blue. "He told me he saw Conward here — upstairs — and he would have shot him but you rushed upon him and begged him not to. He said you would have taken the bullet yourself rather than it should find Conward."

"Oh, oh," the girl cried, in the pain of one mortally hurt. "How could he think that? I didn't care for him — for Conward — but for Dave. I knew there had been a quarrel—I didn't know why—and I knew if Dave shot him—and he can shoot — I've seen him break six bottles out of six on the gallop—it wasn't self-defence—whatever it was he couldn't plead that—and they'd hang him, and that was all I saw, Edith. I was all I saw, and I would, yes, I would rather have taken the bullet myself than that that should happen."

"You poor girl!" said Edith. "You poor girl," and her arms found the other's neck. "You have been hurt, hurt." And then, under her breath, "More than me."

"What has he done?"

"He talked his problems over with me, and after he had talked awhile he became more reasonable. He had already been convinced that he should offer his services to his country, in these times. And I think I persuaded him that it was better to leave vengeance where it belonged. He said he couldn't remain here, and he has already left for England. I am afraid I encouraged him to leave at once. You see, I didn't understand."

Irene had taken a chair and for some minutes she sat in silence. "I don't blame you," she said at length. "You gave him good advice. And I don't blame him, although he might have been less ready to jump at conclusions. There remains only one thing for me to do."

"What?" said Edith, after a moment's hesitation.

"Follow him! I shall follow him, and make him understand. If he must go into battle — with all that that means—he must go in knowing the truth. You have been very kind, Miss Duncan. You have gone out of your way to do me a great service, and you have shown more kindness than I have any right to claim from a stranger. I feel, too, the call for vengeance," she exclaimed, springing to her feet, "but first I must find Dave. I shall follow him at once. I shall readily locate him in some way through the military service. Everything is organized; they will be able to find his name."

She accompanied her visitor to the door. They shook hands and looked for a moment in each other's eyes. And then Edith burst away and hurried down the street.

Irene had searched London for two weeks. The confidence of her earlier inquiries had diminished with each successive blind trail, which, promising results at first, led her into a maze of confusion and disappointment. The organization of the military service commanded less enthusiasm than she felt a month before. She saw it struggling with the apparently impossible; it was as though she, in her little studio, had been suddenly called upon to paint all the portraits in the world. . . . In some degree she understood the difficulties. In equal degree she sympathized with those who were striving to overcome them and she hung on from day to day in her search with a dogged determination which set its teeth against admitting that the search was hopeless. Her little store of money was fast dwindling away; she looked into the face of every man in uniform with a pathetic earnestness that more than once caused her to be misunderstood.

At last one great fear had settled upon her heart. It came upon her first suddenly on shipboard; she had resolutely thrown it out of her mind, but it had been knocking ever since for admittance, and more than once she had almost let it in. Suppose Dave should not enlist under his right name? In such a case her chance of finding him was the mere freak of accidental meeting; a chance not to be banked upon in a country already swarming with its citizen soldiery. . . . And yet there was nothing to do but keep on.

She had sought a park bench where groups of soldiers were continually moving by. The lights shone on their faces, and her own tired eyes followed them incessantly, always her ear was alert for a voice that should set her heart a-pounding, and more than once she had thought she heard that voice. More than a score of times she had thought she had seen that figure with its stride of self-reliance, with strength bulging in every muscle. And always it had been to learn that she had been mistaken; always it had been to feel the heart sink just a little lower than before. And still she kept on. There was nothing to do but keep on.

Often she wondered how he would receive her. That cold look which had frozen his features when she seized the revolver in his hand, would it still sit there, too distant and detached to be scornful? Would she have it to break down; must she, with the fire of her own affection, thaw out an entrance through his icy aloofness? What cost of humiliation would be the price, and would even any price be accepted? She could not know; she could only hope and pray and go on.

As she turned her eyes to follow a group of men in uniform she became aware of a soldier sitting alone in the shadow a short distance away. Some quality about him caught her attention; his face was not discernible, and his figure was too much in the shadow to more than suggest its outline, but she found herself regarding him with an intentness that set her pulses racing. Some strange attraction raised her from her seat; she took a step toward him, then steadied herself. Should she dare risk it again? And yet there was something. She had a sudden plan. She would make no inquiry; no apology; she would walk nearby and call him by name. If that name meant nothing to him he would not even notice her presence, but if it should be—

She was within three paces. Still she could discern nothing definitely, but her pulses were racing more wildly than ever. They had deceived her before; could it be that they were deceiving her again?

"Dave," she said.

He turned quickly in his seat, the light fell on her face and he saw her; he was on his feet and had taken a step toward her. Then he stopped, and she saw his features harden as they had on that dreadful occasion which now seemed so long ago. Would he turn on his heel? If he did she must rush upon him. She must tell him now, she must plead with him, reason with him, prevail upon him at all costs.

Naval Governor For New Zealand

Viscount Jellicoe is Appointed Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of Dominion

The Colonial office has announced that His Majesty King George has been pleased to appoint Admiral of Fleet Viscount Jellicoe to be Governor-General and Commander-in-Chief of the Dominion of New Zealand in succession of the Earl of Liverpool, who will shortly retire from that office. Lord Jellicoe was very warmly received in New Zealand last year during his naval tour, where he spent about six weeks.

In discussing Lord Liverpool's successor, the chief government newspaper, The Dominion, urged the appointment of an admiral in view of New Zealand's naval policy.

"There is obviously no reason why the King's representative should necessarily be an earl or a baron, as has been the case for the last thirty years," declares The Dominion, "and there is even less reason why the post should be used as a jumping-off place for the peerage by British party politicians. New Zealand does not want a purely ornamental governor-general, nor yet one with an ingrained and life-long habit of having a finger in the political pie." The Journal adds that a senior officer of the navy would make a good governor, since he could give some expert advice on naval defence.

The nomination method of appointing governors seems to suit the present organization of the Empire. But the governor ought to be a man of infinite tact, conscious that he occupies a somewhat anomalous position. He may have influence, but he must not try to rule. New Zealand has had governors of many types, and it has liked some of them much better than others. The governor who would be intolerable would be he who imagined that Downing Street had given him authority to direct the public affairs of the Dominion.

Ambassador For Dominion

Canada Will Likely Have Own Representative in U. S.

Discussions are in progress between the United States and Great Britain which give substantial promise of ending in an agreement by which Canada will be represented in Washington by a diplomatic agent of high rank.

Such representation is understood to be desired keenly both by Canada and the United States and to be unopposed by Great Britain. The conversations on the subject are described as being actuated by the wish of all concerned to facilitate negotiations between Canada and the United States on question in which Great Britain is interested only by the fact that Canada is one of her Dominions.

So far as can be learned, the only difficulty that has been encountered to date is in fixing the exact status and rank that the diplomat would have and in determining in advance so as to avoid any chance of friction concerning the relations that he would bear to the British ambassador in Washington. The prospects are that the Canadian representative would have wide freedom of action in matters directly affecting the Dominion. A decision on this point may be expected soon.

Subjects of interest common to the United States and Canada at present frequently meet with long delays in settlement because of the circuitous route they have to follow in the process of negotiation through the British embassy. If a direct exchange of views might be arranged, it is thought by many officials, that much benefit would be derived by the United States and Canada and, indirectly, by Great Britain.

The duties would correspond in a large part with those of a high commissioner, and this is the title that may be given the new representative. During the war, Sir Richard Crawford, as a commercial attaché of the British embassy, had Canadian possessions directly under his supervision, and was able to render an important service in the relations between the United States and Canada. It was partly because attention was called to the greater advantage of closer relations between the two countries that the proposal for an exchange of high ranking diplomatic representatives is now being urged.—N. Y. Evening Sun.

Must Have Air "Harbors"

Before Commercial Aviation in Canada Can Progress

There can be little hope for progress in commercial aviation in Canada until the municipal or other governments start constructing "harbors" for aeroplanes, with landing places and airdromes. This was the statement made by Lieut.-Col. W. G. Barker, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., etc., at the annual meeting of the Montreal Branch of the Aerial League of the British Empire, which was held in the ball room of the Ritz-Carlton, in the course of an address on aeronautical topics.

In his address Lt.-Col. Barker, V.C., gave a sketch of the amazing growth of aviation during the war, from the days when airplanes had a speed of only sixty miles an hour, and a very limited time capacity for flying, with armaments running from rifles to revolvers.

From these beginnings, he said, the flying corps had developed machines capable of 130 miles an hour with a flying range of many hundreds of miles, and armaments of machine guns and bombs that made them so formidable war weapons.

"So greatly had the British airplane service developed," said Lt.-Col. Barker, "that if the war had lasted a few months longer the people of Berlin would have had a taste of the same aerial bombing warfare they had so ruthlessly carried on against British and French cities. They knew this, and it is altogether probable that this knowledge was a great influence in compelling the Germans to ask for the armistice that ended the war."

As a result of the war experience Lt.-Col. Barker said that an air convention had been held at Paris, when rules for air service had been laid down, and adopted by most European countries, and by Canada. The United States had not joined this convention, and as a result had no air rules. If such rules had been in force he felt certain that the recent disaster at Newark would have been avoided. He also welcomed the news that Canada was to have a military air force, which would utilize the services of the thousands of returned Canadian aviators, and prevent the loss to the Dominion of their invaluable experience.

Lt. Col. Barker pointed out especially the value of the air service in keeping up communications and carrying mails, and said that the recent great railway strike in England had largely been defeated by the mobilization of the Royal Air Force.

The trouble in Canada was that they had air regulations without air machines, but he hoped to see development along military, commercial and industrial lines, if only a supply of "harbors" for airplanes could be established. It was the lack of such accommodation, he said, that put Montreal behind other large Canadian cities in aerial development.

The Oldest Name

Three commercial travellers met at the hotel one winter evening and had a hearty supper together. The supper over, the three found some difficulty in allotting their prospective shares of the bill; but one of them at length cut short the dispute that whoever had the "oldest name" among them should go free — the expense being halved by the other two. This being promptly accepted. No. 1 produced a card inscribed "Richard Eve," which no. 2 met with "Adam Brown." Then no. 3, a portly veteran with a humorous gray eye, laid down his card with the quiet confidence of a great general making a decisive movement and remarked with a chuckle, "I don't much think you'll beat this 'un, gents." And he was right, for the name was "Mr. B. Ginning."

Alberta's Growth

Some idea of the progress that the province of Alberta has made during the past seven years, may be gleaned from the statistics as obtained by the staff of the Wrigley Directory, Limited. This information shows that no less than 593 villages and settlements have been established since 1913. In that year a report on the province was secured, which showed that a total of 1,272 cities, towns, villages and settlements had been created, while today, Alberta can boast of 1,870.

Says She Cannot Praise Them Enough

MRS. GAUVIN TELLS OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

She Says Her Back Was So Weak She Could Hardly Walk, But Now She Is A Different Person. St. Jeanne d'Arc, N.B.—May 3rd.—(Special).—Among those in this neighborhood who are enthusiastic in their praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills is Mrs. Joseph Gauvin, a highly respected resident here.

"I cannot praise Dodd's Kidney Pills enough," Mrs. Gauvin states. "My back was so weak I could hardly walk. I took six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and now I feel a different person."

"Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me a tremendous amount of good." Of the many persons paying their tribute of praise to Dodd's Kidney Pills, it is noticeable that the great majority are women. The reason given for this is that the majority of women's ills come from the kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. Healing and strengthening them, they enable the kidneys to strain all the impurities out of the blood. Pure blood is the foundation of health.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills do not help weak or sick kidneys.

British Minister Departs from China

Regarded As A Friend By Every Resident of the Far East

The coming and going of the foreign representatives is not often of interest to any but their own nations; but this is not true of the departure of the retiring British Minister, Sir John Jordan. He had spent 43 years in China and had risen from the lowest rank of a consular language student to the highest position in the gift of his government. He spent the last 14 years as minister in Peking, and came to be regarded as a friend by every resident of the Far East, irrespective of nationality. He was highly respected by the Chinese, even though he had known well how to maintain the interests of his own countrymen when they were in jeopardy. His long life in China has added much to the prestige of his country for fair dealing and upright living.

Will Develop Salt Deposits

Company Erecting Large Plant Near Fusilier, Sask.

Recently Dr. John A. Allan, professor of geology of the University of Alberta, accompanied by J. O. Williams of Soda Deposits, Ltd., which has its head office at Fusilier, Sask., visited the immense deposit of Glauber Salts in this district to prepare a report for the public utilities of commission of Alberta, as to the advisability of opening up these deposits on a commercial scale. It is estimated that the field comprises some 50 acres.

Dr. Allan is not prepared to make any detailed statements other than the nature and quality of the deposit would warrant development. The deposit is of particular interest, as it opens up the possibilities of not only Glauber salts, but also other soluble salts, including potash and magnesia at this or other points. Dr. Allan expects to be working in western Saskatchewan and would give any assistance or information possible to persons reporting the presence of such minerals.

J. O. Williams, who has his headquarters in Calgary—in the meantime, states that operations will commence early in May and that they expect to handle 30 tons a day to start with. The company will erect a plant 50 feet by 100 feet at the mine, together with accommodations for their men, consisting of three boarding houses and a cook house. Mr. Williams has been looking over the townsite with the view to locating offices and warehouse buildings.

The intention at present is to use a line of heavy motor trucks for the transportation. Mr. Williams is well pleased with the district and expects great developments.

Air Force Applications

Fifty and Sixty A Day For Enlistment in Canadian Air Force

Applications are going in at the offices of the Air Board at Ottawa, at the rate of fifty and sixty a day for enlistment in the new Canadian Air Force. All the applications are from ex-officers in the Royal Air Force. Preparations are already under way at Camp Borden, Ontario, for the establishment of the first training camp of the force. Officers of the new force will train at camp Borden in periods of a month or so at a time. There are adequate facilities there for the training of nearly three thousand men at a time. The equipment installed by the Royal Air Force at Camp Borden has been taken over by the Canadian Government for the use of the Canadian force, including eighteen hangars and substantial permanent building. The building of this flying base cost the Imperial government $1,000,000 and comprises an up-to-date aerodrome and barracks.

A Terrible Penalty

frequently follows the neglect of an injury. Germs and dust get into the wound, it begins to fester, blood-poisoning sets in, and sometimes the loss of a limb is the result.

Safeguard yourself against such a possibility by applying Zam-Buk at once. This antiseptic balm destroys all germs and prevents festering and blood-poisoning. Then the healing essences promote the growth of new tissue and it is not long before the wound is completely healed.

Zam-Buk should be kept handy in every home, office, store and factory for cuts, scratches, burns, scalds and bruises. It is equally good for eczema, rashes, boils and ulcers. All dealers, 50c. box.

W. D. Craig, of Regina, has just completed the purchase of a fully equipped section of land seven miles south of the city. The purchase price is reported to be more than $60,000 or approximately $100 an acre. Mr. Craig will put 400 acres in crop on the section this year, making a total of 1,800 acres of his holdings under crop. The section was practically bought for cash.

Plenty of Land Left

The total acreage of the Dominion Lands, other than school lands, which are undisposed of amount to 1,080,750,000 acres, exclusive of land entered but not patented, Indian reserves, forest reserves and parks. Of this total 773 million acres are in the Northwest Territories, 118 million in Manitoba, 85½ million in Saskatchewan, and nearly 97 million in Alberta.

In the Spring Time

Any fool knows enough to carry an umbrella when it rains, but the wise man is he who carries one when it is only cloudy. Any man will send for a doctor when he gets bedfast, but the wiser one is he who adopts proper measures before his illness become serious. During a hard winter or the following spring one feels run-down, tired out, weak and nervous. Probably you have suffered from a cold, the Grip or flu, which has left you thin, weak and pale. This is the time to put your system in order. It is time for house-cleaning.

A good, old-fashioned alternative and temperance tonic is one made of wild roots and herbs, without the use of alcohol, and called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in tablet or liquid form. This is nature's tonic, which restores the tone of the stomach, activity of the liver and steadiness to the nerves, strengthening the whole system. First put up by Dr. Pierce over 50 years ago, now procurable at any drug store; or send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory, Bridgeburg, Ont., for trial package.

The Great Profiteer

Landhog Who Buys All the Land He Can And Withold It From Cultivation

A man came to me not long ago and said: "I own 10,000 acres of land here in Kansas. I am not a criminal, am I?" I told him there was nothing unlawful in that and I asked him what he was doing with that. He said: "I am doing nothing with it except waiting for it to increase in value. I bought it for five and ten dollars an acre, and now it is worth $30 an acre. And I don't intend to sell a foot of it until it is worth $50 an acre."

I asked him if he was farming any of it. He said: "No, not a foot of it. I don't expect to make anything by farming it; the growth in value with make me rich. What's the matter with that? Is there anything immoral about it?" My contention is—and I told him so—that he had no more right to do that when people are land hungry, as they are, than he would have to impound all the water in the country and hold it until the people got thirsty enough to pay him a dollar a gallon for water to drink. I am not opposed to land-ownership, but I am opposed to the land hog who buys all the land he can and holds it to be enriched by the land hunger of the people. When the landhog gets hold of the land and withholds it from cultivation, he is exactly like the miser who gets hold of money and withholds it from circulation. He is the one profiteer who is trafficking in the thing upon which we build the foundation of the state's civilization.—J. H. Allen, governor of Kansas, in The Country Gentleman.

Nurses Made Record

Not Half Been Told of the Bravery and Fearlessness of Nurses

The seventeenth annual convention of the Graduate Nurses' Association of Ontario was held at Ottawa. "Some aspects of war nursing," was the subject of an address delivered by Miss M. C. MacDonald, R.R.C., matron-in-chief R.C.A.M.C., Nova Scotia. Matron MacDonald said that never during the war was it necessary to ask for volunteers in nursing. The blighting influence of the money question never entered into their calculations. Honors were granted by the King, but these were regarded as more or less accidents and as of necessity being limited in number. Of the bravery and fearlessness of the nurses not half had been told, she avowed, and gave an instance of what occurred in her own office the morning after the hospital ship Llandovery Castle was sunk by submarine action. "The descendants of Florence Nightingale are not all dead, I met a few of them in the course of the war," said Miss MacDonald. Matron MacDonald paid exceedingly high tribute to "a son of this province, the warm friend of all nurses and their necessities, a noble man whose daily usefulness often exceeded the life-work of some men, the late Sir William Osler."

Good Type of Settlers

More than 1,000 immigrants passed through Winnipeg in one week recently, according to the immigration commissioner. The type of settlers, he states, is better than ever before, and the majority intend buying and operating their own farms.

Hints for Travellers

Some Etiquette For Guidance of the Sleeping Car Patrons

The following appeared in the Montreal Gazette: Many years' experience of the petty annoyances caused by the minority composed of thoughtless, as well as selfish, persons travelling in sleeping cars has caused me to write the following, which may induce a few at least of the offenders to reform. The necessarily small space in a sleeping car in comparison with an hotel suggests that the greater comfort to the sleeping car traveller will result from a fair regard for the rights and feelings of others by all sleeping car travellers.

So long as passengers desire to have their clothes brushed with a whisk, the space in the passageway at either end of the car is the only proper place for this practice to occur. The sleeping car company's instructions to the porters require them to ask passengers to go to the aisle at the end of the car if desiring to be brushed. Porters are merely human, therefore differ in their obedience to orders. Every traveller can assist in the observance of this rule (which was made for the general good) and prevent annoyances to other passengers. If the public want the brushing practice to cease altogether, the remedy is in their possession. The combined lavatory and smoking-room is necessarily limited in capacity, and at the time in the morning when it has to be used as a lavatory, it is not intended to be used at all as a smoking-room.

Don't smoke in this room in the early morning when the other later risers than you are obliged to perform their toilets. You can defer your smoke. You are in the way and merely an annoyance to the majority, and show a selfish disregard for the rights of others. Under present conditions, get up late once in a well filled car, and your one experience of the man in the seat smoking will show you what other people think about your case at other times.

Don't bring in your suit-case to this room. Use a toilet "hold-all." Many men do. You can. Give the other fellows a chance of some room.

Don't whisk your clothes in this room if other people are present. They don't want to breathe your dust. They merely consider you are wanting in good manners.

Don't get up late and shave, if by so doing you discommode others. No one objects to a man shaving if he does not interfere unreasonably with other men who merely want to wash their face and hands, etc.

The instant you have finished your toilet get out of the room. You have no further right there while the other men require the room as a lavatory. They are anxious to see you go as quickly as you can. Don't stay in this room and crowd the later risers.

Don't whistle anywhere in a sleeping car. Your alleged music pleases only you. No one else wants to hear it. Most men think the whistler a nuisance.

Don't talk loudly in the body of the car when most people have retired to sleep. Their only interest in your conversation is to wish you somewhere else.

After nine a.m. usually the smoking-room is in use almost entirely for smoking purposes. Those who are not smoking should not occupy the room to the exclusion of those desiring to smoke.—An Old Traveller.

A DESIRE TO EAT WHAT YOU WANT

How Stomachs Can Be Restored To A Vigorous, Healthy Condition

Not to be limited in diet, but to eat whatever he pleases is the dream of every dyspeptic. No one can honestly promise to restore any stomach to this happy condition, because all people cannot eat the same things with equally satisfactory results. It is literally true that "what is one man's food is another man's poison." But it is possible to so tone up the digestive organs that a pleasing diet may be selected from articles of food that cause no discomfort.

When the stomach lacks tone there is no quicker way to restore it than to build up the blood. Good digestion without rich, red blood is impossible, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills offer the very best way to build up and enrich the blood. For this reason these pills are especially good in stomach trouble attended by thin blood, and in attacks of nervous dyspepsia. Proof of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in even the most obstinate cases of stomach trouble is given by Mrs. S. Morrison, Varney, Ont., who says: "I shall always feel indebted to a friend who advised me to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had been a sufferer for upwards of twelve years with stomach trouble which resulted in a general weakness of the whole system. My meals always caused me great discomfort, and at times I would go hungry rather than undergo the suffering which followed meals. I was constantly taking something or other recommended for the trouble, but without finding a cure, and often the trouble kept me in bed when I should have been about doing my housework. My friend, who had had a similar attack came to see me and urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which had cured her. I got a supply at once and began taking them, and soon found relief. By the time I had used eight boxes I was again enjoying the best of health, and with a good appetite and a stomach restored to normal. Had I known of this medicine earlier it would have saved me years of suffering, and I urge any who may be in a similar condition to try these pills at once."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Horse Market Improves

Northwestern States Report Big Demand and Higher Prices

There has been a marked improvement in livestock conditions in the northwest during the past few months. This applies especially to horses and mules, although improved conditions in the sheep, hog and cattle industries are noticeable. It is of the horse that I wish to write, for the reaction in sentiment toward the faithful animal is almost revolutionary.

During the past three years there has been a craze for tractors and trucks and automotive power. Demonstrations costing tens of thousands of dollars have been held throughout the northwestern states and an extensive advertising campaign has been carried on. "Old Dobbin" had no one to boost for him. There were no page advertisements in farm journals and no demonstrations covering a week at a time to show what the horse could do. People began to believe the fairy tales told by the sales agents of tractors and trucks and regarded the horse as doomed and about to be supplanted by automotive power.

I have been making some extended investigations as to the true conditions and the revelations are really surprising. Instead of automotive power replacing the horse and mule on the farms of the northwest, the number of machines is so small as to be entirely negligible, while the number of work horses shows only a slight decrease from former years. The startling part of the disclosure is in the marked decrease in young horses and mules showing that the motor propaganda has had the evil effect of reducing the breeding of work animals to a noticeable and almost dangerous extent. Farmers are awakening to this condition and have already begun planning to raise more horses and mules for farm work for future needs. The motor bogey for farm work has been demonstrated to be a myth.

A few days ago I attended a sale at a 640 acre farm, which the owner has rented and is leaving. He had been using trucks and tractors. I thought that he had a "horseless" farm and mentioned it to him. He declared "there is no such thing as a horseless farm and never will be. I use a tractor, trucks and automobiles, but they do only a small portion of the work. There will never be a time when successful farming can be carried on without horses." At the sale he sold 19 horses and 19 mules with which he had been farming. His trucks and tractors were mere side issues. His work geldings brought $225 to $265 each and his mules from $100 for short yearlings to $247 for work mules.

There was a sale of horses at Pullman, Wash., a short time ago, and the average price on 51 head was $445. Last week at a farm sale in Idaho county work horses brought $325 to $415 each. Buyers from Canada recently shipped several carloads of unbroken range horses picked up in Idaho, for which they paid an average of $110 per head. Last year they could not have been sold for $30 per head.

Farmers and horsemen are becoming alarmed over conditions and see a serious shortage of work horses in the next few years due to the failure to breed mares during the past three years. Today there is a greater demand for good stallions and jacks than there has been for five years, and a united effort is to be made to replace the diminishing stock of work horses. The fear of the tractor and truck have been dispelled and people are again turning to the horse.

A certain lumber company a few years ago sold the horses used in the lumber yards and logging camps and replaced them with trucks and donkey engines. For several months the company has been buying work horses to replace the tractors and trucks.

New Irrigation Project

Field work has commenced on the new irrigation project south of Lethbridge, Alberta, which is expected to irrigate between 100,000 and 135,000 acres, and two survey parties have set out. The trustees of the district are optimistic about its future and confident that the bonds will find a good sale. The detailed surveys made by the Dominion Government have been confirmed by an eminent consulting irrigation engineer.

Organizing a Ten Thousand Club.

The Alberta Social Service League is out to form a Ten Thousand Club, each member to contribute $10 to finance the Provincial Referendum to stop the importation of liquor into Alberta from other provinces. To obtain 10,000 members and to carry the vote should be easy, if the League will only tell the voters exactly how the Legislature will handle the liquor question thereafter. Every voter admits it is folly to ship from one province to another as at present, and also that the present act is a farce, but before they vote again on this question they want to know exactly how the law will be administered—the voters do not intend to be fooled again.

While on this subject we might tell the Alberta Social Service League it injures their cause to send out such statements as follows, which is taken from a pamphlet issued by the League:

"It took $50,000 to put The Liquor Act on the Statute Books of Alberta. In other words the people of the Province invested $58,000 in closing the bars.

"From that day on drunkenness suddenly stopped. Children were better fed and clothed. Mothers welcomed the change and were able to buy some of the real necessities that were needed in the homes, bank savings accounts were opened."

The pamphlet contains many good arguments and statements of facts, but the one misstatement, "From that day on drunkenness suddenly stopped", will have a very bad effect on the League's future publicity work. It is too raw a statement on this subject and everyone knows it is far from the truth, and will surely injure the cause and those most anxious to do right.

Women's Institute Offer Assistance.

At their meeting last Thursday evening the Gleichen Women's Institute decided to send a delegation to the Town Council to offer the Institute's assistance in improving the cemetery. No doubt the town fathers will gladly accept the assistance of the ladies as they are good at obtaining financial aid and usually can get more work out of men for nothing than mere man can with money. The Council has ever been willing to improve the cemetery but have been always short of funds. It will be remembered the Institute was first in seriously starting "Clean-up Day" and finally succeeded in interesting the Council and every person in town with the result that at the public meeting last election night nearly every speaker glowingly referred to the good work accomplished last year on Clean-up Day, and the ladies were not even mentioned in that connection. May the ladies be as successful with the cemetery.

Co-Operative Wool Marketing.

The Canadian Wool Growers, Limited, a farmer's co-operative organization which handles the sale of most of the wool produced in Canada, has now 1,923 shareholders. Of these, eight hundred are in the West; 254 are in Manitoba, 313 in Saskatchewan and 233 in Alberta. The total amount of wool handled last year was 3,811,366 pounds, of which 2,802,443 was contributed by the west. All the western wool was sold excepting 225,000 pounds, which the Association decided to buy from the shippers at what they expressed would be the market price so as to close up the business for the year. The close of the war killed the demand for coarser wool and made slow sales, but a better demand is to be expected as a depletion of the flocks in Australia, New Zealand and the Argentine is reported.

Newspapers Have Troubles.

Many of the Ontario weekly newspapers have already raised the price of their yearly subscription to $2 a year and all will have to follow suit, and also raise their advertising rates as well or quit business, owing to the increased cost of newspaper, wages, etc. That is not all, some will quite for the reason they cannot get paper at all. Just what the newspapers in the West will have to do remains to be seen.

BECAUSE:

Irrigation makes the farmer independent of rainfall, and insures good crops, not occasionally, but every year.

Irrigation makes possible the cultivation of alfalfa, the king of fodders, which assures good returns in dairying and mixed farming.

Irrigation means intensive farming and close settlement, with all the advantages of a densely populated agricultural community.

Irrigation in the Canadian Pacific Railway irrigation block is no longer an experiment, the years that it has been tried having absolutely demonstrated its success wherever intelligently applied.

You can buy irrigated land from the Canadian Pacific Railway at prices averaging $50 an acre, with twenty years to pay and the privilege of a loan of $2,000 for improvements; 6 per cent. interest; no principal after the first payment until the end of the fourth year; reduced interest; if settlement conditions complied with, and no water rental for the first year. Contracts can be paid off before maturity if desired.

This is the most liberal offer of irrigated farm land on record. For full particulars apply to

Rehabilitating the World

The Supreme Council of the League of Nations is making substantial progress with the difficult task entrusted to it of disentangling the complex races which for so long have been held subject to the Sultan under the tyranny of the despotic and murderous Turks. Europe and Asia present many international, racial and religious problems, but none quite so difficult of solution as that of the old Turkish empire. It is easy to criticize Great Britain and France because of the decision to leave the Turks in Constantinople, but it is not so easy to outline an alternative policy likely to prove successful and not provoke a still more serious situation, and one that might have far-reaching results of a disastrous character. However, the power of the Turk is destroyed, and an end is in sight to the long chapter of Ottoman misrule, rapine and murder.

Having been rescued from the domination of the Turks by the victorious British armies, Palestine and Mesopotamia have been entrusted to Great Britain to be administered under a mandate from the League of Nations, and a national home for the Jews is being established under the protection of the United Nations. France is given a mandate for the administration of Syria, and the United States has been asked to accept the mandate for Palestine and down-trodden Armenia. Thus to the three most powerful of the allied nations, those enjoying the most democratic forms of government, and actuated by the loftiest ideals, is given the humane and civilizing work of bringing a new era of happiness and prosperity to millions of people who for centuries have been little more than slaves, with life and property in hourly danger of extinction by the unspeakable Turk.

In this column last week reference was made to the gigantic financial problems which must be solved by the people of Canada, and it is possible that before this appears in print the budget will have been presented at Ottawa and the policy of the Government indicated as to how the national obligations are to be met. It is inevitable that there must be a further increase in taxation, and Canadians must be prepared for it. But grave as our position in Canada may be, and heavy the burdens to be borne, they are slight in comparison to those of other lands and peoples.

The German budget was recently presented to the Reichstag. The financial burden which the people of Germany must meet in some form or another this year reaches the stupendous total of 52,500,000,000 marks, or, roughly speaking, $13,000,000,000, or more than four times the gross national debt of Canada. Dr. Wirth, the German Finance Minister, frankly admits he is at a loss to know how the money is to be raised or where it is to come from.

Italy is carrying an enormous debt. It was heavy before the war, and has been increased many times over. The government and people are meeting it courageously, and a loan of 20,000,000,000 lire has just been raised by the Italian people.

France, too, has recently floated a loan among its own people of 15,000,000,000 francs, or an amount equal to the national debt of Canada. The French parliament is now engaged in passing measures which will enormously increase the taxation imposed on the French people.

With a national debt of approximately $40,000,000,000, Great Britain has started on the great task of paying it off. No further borrowings will be made, but taxation is being substantially increased. This year British revenue is estimated at $7,000,000,000, or more than double our national debt. This great revenue will provide for a reduction in the British national debt of at least $1,000,000,000, while in 1921 it is estimated that a further reduction of $1,500,000,000 will be made.

Canada has not yet made a start at debt reduction; on the contrary the debt is still increasing. This must stop, and the work of liquidation of the national debt begun. It can only be accomplished by this Dominion following the example of other countries—curtailing expenditures wherever possible and increasing revenues by increasing taxation. The people must be prepared for this and must accept it without any complaint. There is no other way out. The longer the debt is allowed to stand, the heavier the burden will become. People realize this in their individual affairs; they must appreciate the fact that it is equally true in their national business.

Notwithstanding the wholesale destruction of the last five years, and the enormous burdens of debt and taxation which must now be borne, the world is still the gainer, because the Great War was the operation whereby the cancer of militarism and the ever-increasing burden of military and naval armaments was cut out of the world's body. The cost of the operation must now be paid for, but the cure effected will give renewed life and vigor to the world, and, by relieving it of an intolerable burden, will ultimately add to its prosperity and the comfort and happiness of all people.

THE BEST MEDICINE FOR LITTLE ONES

Thousands of mothers state positively that Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine they know of for little ones. Their experience has taught them that the Tablets always do just what is claimed for them and that they can be given with perfect safety to children of all ages. Concerning them Mrs. Joseph Thierien, St. Gabriel de Brandon, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine I know of for little ones. I thought I would lose my baby before trying the Tablets but they soon made him healthy and happy and now I would not be without them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR MAY 9

ELI AND HIS SONS

I. The Wickedness of Eli and His Sons 2: 12-17, 27-36.

1. Eli's sons (vv. 12-17, 22). The behavior of these sons is in strange contrast to that of the boy Samuel. Eli's sons were priests and ministered in the things of the sanctuary, but "knew not the Lord" (v. 12).

(1) Graft (vv. 12-17). This greed was practised upon the worshippers who brought their sacrifices to the sanctuary, according to God's law God ordained that the priests should have the breasts and shoulders of the animals which were brought to the altar (Ex. 29: 27; Lev. 7: 31, 32). The degenerate sons of Eli were not content with this, but demanded more and even sought to obtain it by force (v. 16). Moreover, they lifted out with a fork certain choice portions while raw, and had them roasted. Such behavior on the part of the priests was revolting to the worshippers and resulted in the abhorrence of the Lord's offerings.

2. Eli (vv. 27-36). Eli was seemingly a good man, but he seriously erred before God in that he failed to discipline his sons (vv. 22-24). He knew of their sins and was conscious of his obligation, but his fatherly heart led him into a sentimental indulgence; his love got the better of his judgment. Eli was content with a weak remonstrance. He was under obligations not merely to speak against it, but should have acted against it.

II. Eli and His Sons Punished (4: 1-18).

They at last came to reap what they had sown. God has appointed a day of judgment (Acts 17: 31). There is a harvest time for the sinner as well as for the righteous (Joel 3: 13). If one has sown to the wind he shall reap the whirlwind. The Philistines made war upon Israel and defeated them with great slaughter. This judgment had been made known to Eli by a "man of God" (2: 37 and Samuel (3: 11-18). The Philistines were instruments in the hands of God for this judgment.

1. The battle with the Philistines (vv. 1-9). The Israelites made an unsuccessful attempt to free themselves from the oppression of the Philistines. Israel was smitten and some 4,000 were slain. This aroused them to inquire as to why the Lord had smitten them and to suggest that the ark be brought from Shiloh as a defence against the enemy. In this they committed two blunders: (1) The elders had no right to handle the ark; that belonged to the priests. Before taking such a step they should have sought the mind of God, and if it were his will that the ark be brought it should have been done by the priests. (2) It was a superstitious use of the ark, which was a symbol of God's presence. They ignorantly assumed that the presence of God in the ark, forgetting that he is the living God, who has a will and purpose of his own, and therefore will not give countenance to that which disagrees with his holy purpose and will. Professing Christians in this age commit a similar error when they substitute the sacraments of the church for the presence of God in the soul. The earth rang out with a great shout when the ark was brought into the camp and the enemy was struck with fear, for they knew what wonders God had wrought in times past. In their desperation they made a stand, calling upon their men to do their best. With their backs to the wall they fought and won the victory.

2. Israel's disastrous defeat (vv. 10-18). (1) The army was routed and a great slaughter occurred (v. 10); (2) the ark of God was taken (v. 10), the symbol of the divine presence with its sacred memories torn from their grasp and with it went Israel's hope; (3) Eli's sons slain (v. 10); the very priests who were the custodians of the ark were slain; (4) death of Eli the high priest (v. 18). The news of the defeat of the army and the death of his sons was awful, but when he heard that the ark of God was taken he died instantly.

Exports From Alberta

An increase of approximately seven million dollars in exports to the United States from Alberta in 1919, is shown in the report of the United States consul at Calgary. Cattle, wool, grain, butter and furs, constituted the chief articles of export.

To Superannuate Civil Servants

Retiring Fund Provided For in Proposed Ontario Legislation

Retirement from office of all civil servants who have reached the age of 70 years, is provided in a superannuation bill which was introduced by Premier Drury in the Ottawa legislature. All employees who have been 30 years in the service, or who are over 65 years of age, may be retired either at the option of the government or themselves. Superannuation allowances to a maximum of $2,000 yearly will be paid such retiring employees.

The superannuation fund will be made up by contributions from the civil service and the government. Employees will be required to pay into the fund a portion of their salary, ranging from 3-4 percent to 8 percent, according to age.

Employees under 26 pay the minimum and the rate increases for older employees.

The government will pay into the fund an amount equal to that deducted from employees' salaries, and will pay interest upon the fund at five percent. The province will bear the cost of administration of the scheme.

Stock Raising in B.C.

Breeders of the Province Are Going In For Purebred Cattle

The breeding of purebred stock for export, is believed to be a coming industry in British Columbia. Development of this new industry is bringing new breeders into the province. New herds are being brought together, the owners of which have a guarantee that there will be an abundant market for blue-blooded cattle, not only locally and in the other provinces and adjoining states, but as well in Hawaii, Australia and New Zealand.

Several head of purebred Holstein cattle have been sent to Australia from British Columbia recently, and it is said that Australian stockmen are planning to send their representatives to Canada for the purpose of securing registered Hereford, Holstein and Jersey cattle.

SHORT OF BREATH Could Hardly Walk Without Resting

When you go to a physician to be examined for any heart trouble, one of the first questions he asks is: "Are you short of breath?"

Now, when the heart becomes affected there ensues a feeling of a choking sensation, a shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, dizziness and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves unstrung Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are just the remedy you require. They regulate and stimulate the heart, and strengthen and restore the whole nerve system.

Mr. Stephen Crouse, East Clifford, N.S., writes: "I suffered for five years with heart trouble. I could hardly walk from the house to the barn without resting, as I used to get so short of breath. Doctors could not help me. My wife told me to get a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and I felt better after taking them; three boxes made me quite well. I am now helping my son to work the farm, and can truthfully say I feel like a different man."

The Need of Fleets

World Needs A Country That Is Prepared to Testify to Its Faith

In the League of Nations
Even after the United States had declared war on Germany there was a tendency on the part of the United States navy department—if Admiral Sims is to be believed—to allow anti-British sentiment to embarrass the close co-operation that the situation demanded. It is clear, however, that the professional rivalries of a few elderly men can no more estrange the two great English-speaking nations than can the antipathies of Irish-American and German-American politics, if the mass of the citizens in each country is determined that mutual good-will must be the basis of their international relations. What the world needs badly at the present moment is a country that is prepared to testify to its faith in the League of Nations by some overt act involving the reduction of its ability to strike at its political enemies. No nation is in a better position to do this than Great Britain, and no nation can better apply the money so saved to constructive, as opposed to destructive, effort. A comparatively large army we must have for many years to come, if we are to perform our international obligations and compel our beaten enemies to live up to theirs. Great fleets we do not now need any more than the United States needs them, and, unlike the United States, we cannot afford them. The proud traditions of the navy can well be preserved by strict attention to quality rather than to quantity. A great war between any powers, especially between Great Britain and the United States—is out of the question for another twenty years. By that time the Armadas of today will all be ready for the scrap-heap. What a pity, then, to waste the money.—The Irish Times.

Minard's Liniment Lumberman's Friend.

Cause of High Prices

The Cure is Beyond the Power of the Legislators
The figures given in the Statist show that the cost of living is still increasing, and that in the cases of 45 representative commodities the present price is three times that of 1913.

In the main the rise is due to more fundamental causes, and the cure is beyond the powers of legislators. The world during the four years has devoted a great deal of its energies to the destruction of life and property. It has ceased to devote its surplus produce to new productive developments; it has used up that surplus and pledged its credit, and has nothing to show for its efforts except an escape from a political peril. Until production recovers and credit is restored, the relation between the value of money and of goods cannot begin to move back towards the normal.—The Westminster Gazette.

World's Wheat Supplies

Estimated at 50,250,000 Tons From 1920 Crop

According to cable advices from London, the commissioner on wheat supplies estimates the yield from Canada, Australia, New Zealand the United States, Argentina, Algeria, Rumania and India, will be 50,250,000 tons. These figures, submitted to the British Board of Trade, refer to the 1920 crop.

The import wheat and rye requirements of the United Kingdom are given as 5,700,000 tons, and South Africa 1,000,000.

Metz withstood a siege of seven months in 1444.

No Distinction Shown In War Graves

Uniformity of Headstones for Generals and Privates Will be Carried Out in Britain

The war graves commission has decided unanimously on absolute uniformity of headstones for the graves of every man and woman who was killed or who died in the war. A plain design in Portland stone has been selected, recording the name, regiment and rank, symbol of religious faith and the inscription which Kipling chose—"Their Name Lives Forever"—with room at the foot of the stone for an inscription limited to 66 words, to be personally chosen by those nearest the dead. This principle of equality, whether for field-marshal or camp follower, has the approval of the government.

Kipling and Winston Churchill, with other members of the commission, addressed a meeting of the army committee in the house of commons Kipling, with intensity of feeling, spoke in favor of absolute equality. He said the main object had been to aim at dignity and simplicity.

Mr. Churchill said that the whole spirit of the army was in favor of equality and uniformity.

Korean Alphabet

Consists of Fourteen Consonants and Eleven Vowels

One of the first acts of Japan, upon taking over Korea, was to forbid the printing of books—in anything but Japanese characters. On-mun, the script of Korea, is altogether different from the language of China and Japan, and was at first despised because it was "so easy that even women could learn it in a month." The script is ascribed by Korean annals to the year 1447, when the King of Korea, resolving to assert his independence by abandoning the use of Chinese writing as the official medium of correspondence, invented an alphabet to suit the special requirements of the vernacular. The Korean alphabet consists of fourteen consonants and eleven vowels. The characters are of an extreme simplicity, contrasting strongly with the complex Chinese. There are no pronouns of the first and second person, the third, with relational particles, serving for both.

Canadian Ships Carried Nearly All Own Grain

Some interesting figures dealing with the total export of Canadian grains in Canadian ships as compared with the export in the United States vessels were given in the house in reply to a question from A. B. Copp, (Westmoreland). Sir George Foster said 95.55 percent of wheat exported was carried in Canadian bottoms as well as 85.94 percent of export oats, and 89.65 percent of barley.
